

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A power inductor includes a magnetic core material having first and second ends. An inner cavity arranged in the magnetic core material extends from the first end to the second end. A conductor passes through the cavity. A slotted air gap arranged in the magnetic core material extends from the first end to the second end.

